

OUR ANNIVERSARY

Hey, look at you now and where have you been, haven't seen you in so very long
You're still looking good, still looking strong, but tell me, have all your feelings gone
Yeah well, I can still remember when, but all I do now is think of then
Did it hurt you, too, to see us like that, dealing with all that crap in the end

But there was a time when I thought that you were the reason why
We'd lie in the bed till four then get up just to walk the dog
Ice cream sundaes taste so right after starrng at the stars in the moonlight
We'd wash our bodies in the night blue sea then celebrate our anniversary

Hey, look at you now and look at the arms that are holding you close this time
Why must you act like you never had a heart, cause can't you see what you're doing to mine
Well, I guess you had to fight your own wars, your own way, but I wish there was something I could do
But if I gave everything you wanted of me, there would be no me, just two of you

But there was a time when I thought that you were the reason why
We'd lie in the bed till four then get up just to walk the dog
Ice cream sundaes taste so right after starrng at the stars in the moonlight
We'd wash our bodies in the night blue sea then celebrate our anniversary

Instrumental

Hey, look at you, you're a big girl now, and I'm just another guy you've forgotten about
You see, I've gotten by the hate that's inside of me, but I've got to get by the love somehow
And I know we never saw the sun and how the little children play and run in the cold
But there's one thing I've got to have you know, I'll never forget, no matter how old I go

But there was a time when I thought that you were the reason why
We'd lie in the bed till four then get up just to walk the dog
Ice cream sundaes taste so right after starrng at the stars in the moonlight
We'd wash our bodies in the night blue sea then celebrate our anniversary
